PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT AND INTERNSHIP SUPPORT

Ayana Lee is a Human Resources Professional at CBS Sports focusing on the intricacies of system processes, employee life-cycle events, training, and people management. In addition to her work with CBS Sports, she enjoys working with athletes in support of their professional and career development. In 2021, she launched her passion project and founded Career Bolt, a business designed to guide athletes in their transition from the locker room to the conference room. She specializes in resume building, cover letter writing, and interview coaching for athletes.

Prior to joining CBS Sports, she worked as a Talent Acquisition Coordinator at the NFL in New York City, focusing on recruitment support and onboarding processes. While at the NFL, Ayana obtained her master's degree from Rutgers State University in Human Resource Management. She is a proud alumnus of Rutgers University, where she also received her B.A in Human Resource Management and Labor Studies. Outside of the classroom, she also competed for the Rutgers D1 Gymnastics team and her love for sports continues.

Ayana is a dedicated team player, charismatic leader, and a strong believer in the power of positive thinking in the workplace. She hopes to continue to leverage her professional experiences and build her network while inspiring others along the way.

Ayana Lee will focus on serving student-athletes in the following areas:
